

Physical Security Division

1. The Physical Security Division has the responsibility for developing Physical Security Division policy, procedures and standards for all CIA activities. OSSD is responsible in this area for producing information and requirements concerning overseas installations, in order to insure that Physical Security Division might best carry out their responsibilities.

2. The Physical Security Division is responsible for the research, development and testing of security equipment and materials to insure that their responsibilities outlined in Para 1 are met. OSSD is responsible for the application, installation and maintenance of such equipment and materials overseas.

2a. Pouch Security

Physical Security Division is responsible for the development and establishment of techniques and materials for protection of Agency pouches. OSSD monitors the implementation of this program at overseas installations. [REDACTED]

25X1A2d1

25X1A2d1 [REDACTED]

2b. Contingency Planning and Riot Control

Physical Security Division is responsible for the development and establishment of techniques and materials for the protection of Agency facilities and personnel during civil disturbances. OSSD is responsible for the establishment and maintenance of such programs overseas.

Handwritten notes and signatures:
P
S
3596
304
IT-C-1

~~SECRET~~
~~SECRET~~

Physical Security Division

1. The Physical Security Division has a responsibility for Physical Security Policy for CIA and for the operation and control of personnel assigned to the Physical Security Division.

2. The Physical Security Division is responsible for the research and development of security equipment for CIA. OSSD is responsible for the application, installation and maintenance of such equipment overseas.

3. Senior representatives of OSSD will be required to maintain direct contact with the Chief, Physical Security Division in order for OSSD to accomplish its mission.

4. Preparation of technical guidance on all overseas equipment matters will be the responsibility of the Physical Security Division but this will be accomplished in coordination with OSSD.

5. The Physical Security Division will be responsible for supporting the overseas physical security equipment needs of OSSD and for furnishing Physical Security Equipment specialists to travel to overseas installations in support of this requirement. The administration and operational supervision of personnel detailed to the Physical Security Division from OSSD will be the responsibility of the Chief, Physical Security Division.

- 2 -

6. OSSD will levy its equipment needs and personnel needs from the Chief, Physical Security Division, who will comply with these requirements to the fullest extent possible within the limitations of manpower and workload.

7. Incoming correspondence concerning security equipment matters from overseas installations will be directed to OSSD with a copy to the Physical Security Division. The Physical Security Division will be the action office in fulfilling equipment requirements. Coordination will be had by Physical Security Division by OSSD in outgoing correspondence on such matters.

8. Personnel from the Security Equipment Branch of the Physical Security Division while at Headquarters will be under the administration and supervision of the Chief, Physical Security Division. When traveling overseas on OSSD support matters these Security Equipment Branch personnel will be under the administration and supervision of the Chief, Overseas Security Support Division.

JWMcC/sel 21 Oct 68

1 - WSW

1 - Reading